Airport Petitions Secured

CHARLESTON -- In an all-out effort to promote a county-wide airport bond issue election to be held in connection with the Aug. 8 primary, the recently formed airport committee rounded up the necessary 300 petition signatures in less than 48 hours, turning the signatures in at the county clerk's office Thursday night.

Hunt Wellborn, co-chairman of the committee, which was appointed by Charleston and East Prairie Chambers of Commerce, said today he anticipated no problems in validating the signatures.

The proposed airport would be constructed at the junction of Highway 105 and Route D, four miles south of the Interstate 57 overpass and five miles north of East Prairie.

Backers of the airport proposal say inclusion of the bond issue on the Aug. 8 ballot will save Mississippi County taxpayers from $2,000 to $3,000 -- the cost of a special election.

Land purchase and construction of the airport is estimated at $400,000, but, according to Wellborn, since admission of the Bootheel into the Ozark Regional Planning Commission has qualified the area for additional Federal monies, Mississippi County's share in the cost would amount to about $40,000.

Voter approval of $50,000 is sought however, since federal allocations will not pay for buildings at the airport site. The extra $10,000 is expected to pay for a modest structure.

It is estimated the $50,000 total can be met with a tax levy of two cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Supporters of the issue point out that since the Mississippi County Health Department has reduced its tax levy by two cents per $100 assessed valuation, effective next year, the bond issue will not create a marked increase in taxation.

Case To Be Heard Monday

Bond Allowed To Intervene

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. AP - State Auditor Christopher "Kit" Bond, a Republican candidate for governor, was allowed today to intervene in a Supreme Court suit challenging his residency qualifications.

The court will begin hearing the case at 2 p.m. Monday. The court ruled Thursday that pending a decision on the challenge filed by one of Bond's Republican primary opponents, election clerks cannot put Bond's name on the Aug. 8 primary ballot.

The petition, filed by State Rep. R. J. "Bus" King, R- Clayton, does not name Bond as a defendant. It asks that Bond's name be ordered removed from the primary ballot, contending Bond lived in other states from 1960-68. It does not contest Bond's qualifications as auditor, to which he was elected in 1970.

Missouri's constitution says the governor and auditor must have lived in the state 10 full years before the election. Meanwhile, there were these other developments: -Public records obtained by The Associated Press from Fulton County, Georgia, Superior Court showed Bond's signature on an Aug. 3, 1964 certificate granting him his law license there.

-The St. Louis Globe-Democrat reported that the Internal Revenue Service said Bond paid income taxes in Atlanta in 1963 and in the Baltimore district office in 1964, 1965 and 1966. From 1960-62 and 1967-70 he paid taxes at the Missouri office.

Bond has said he paid part of his taxes in Atlanta in 1964 and part in Missouri. He also has said he worked as a law clerk from July 1, 1963 to June of 1964. Affidavits made public last week showed he applied for a bar exam in Georgia in January of 1964 and passed it in June.

The Aug. 3, 1964 certificate directs the Superior Court in Atlanta:

"Upon his filing with the clerk of Fulton County, it being the county, of the applicant's residence, his original application, certificate of attorneys accompanying same, the oath made in connection with his examination, and the certificate from the board of examiners in which said application is referred by the number 191, said clerk do issue to him a license..."

Peace Officers Told

Nuclear Reactor Is Additional Tool For Law Enforcement

BENTON- Southeast Missouri Peace Officers gathered at the American Legion hall in Benton Thursday afternoon for a crime detection and prevention seminar hosted by Scott County Sheriff John Dennis.

The main speaker for the seminar was Dr. James Vogt of the nuclear research center at University of Missouri in Columbia.

Dr. Vogt discussed how the university's nuclear reactor can help law enforcement agencies in the area. He gave an example of comparing samples of hair to detect possible arsenic poisoning. Paint and fiber samples and gun powder residue are other comparisons run at the reactor.

Dr. Vogt was quick to explain the nuclear reactor's facilities are not a substitute for regular crime labs, such as the one at Cape Girardeau, but merely an additional tool to law enforcement people.

Assisting Dr. Vogt in demonstrating some of the techniques he discussed were Matt Eichor, also of the nuclear research center at Columbia, and Dr. Robert Briner of the Southeast Missouri Crime Lab at Southeast Missouri State College.

Residents Question Landfill

BENTON -- Warren Manning, assistant administrator of Scott County Health Department, said today objections to a sanitary landfill by area residents stemmed, in most cases, from misinformation and misunderstanding of landfills.

Following a film concerning landfills last night at the courthouse, Manning led a question and answer session with the 25 persons attending.

He said most queries showed concern over private hauling of trash which might create a nuisance to the roads

Thursday Record Heat Day

By JUDY STRICKLIN

Thursday was one of the hottest and most humid days Sikeston has had this summer.

Temperatures varied only 18 degrees, from a high of 93 Thursday afternoon to a low of 75 this morning, and humidity was recorded at 80 per cent for the entire day. There was little wind and it was hard to get a "breeze" even riding in your car -- and who wanted all of that hot air anyway?

A Sikeston Light and Water Co. spokesman said this morning that the utility used 27,000 kilowatts of power Thursday. That's a jump of 2,500 from last year's 24,500 kilowatts on the same day.

The company says it has plenty of power and expects no problems this year, but expects to use a large amount of it as the temperature and humidity climb.

High temperatures for the week have held steady around the 90- degree mark, except for Sunday when it only reached 79. The lows have been around 70 degrees.

Sunday through Tuesday's forecast calls for more hot and humid weather with a chance of thunderstorms.

So, turn on your fans — or air- conditioners, put on your coolest clothes, and pant!

Fish Fancier Famous Afar

By RON PORTER

It all started eight years ago in St. Louis when his son came home from the neighbors with five guppies in a jar. Floyd Perkins ran out to buy his son an aquarium and ended up becoming fascinated with the fish.

Today, in Sikeston, Perkins has over 3,000 guppies in 72 tanks in the basement of his home at 211 Kennedy Dr.

Here he raises his guppies which have won him about 100 trophies at tropical fish shows, fame among fish fanciers and requests from collectors for guppies to add to their collections.

Perkins has developed two breeds of guppies which have attracted the attention of the fish world. About two years ago he developed the half- black pastel, and from that he bred the yellow albino.

He has shipped his fish all over the country, to Canada and to West Germany. He sent out quite a few half-black pastels free after he developed them, he said, but he'll charge for his new yellow albinos.

Perkins says the fish are judged in contests according to their size, color and shape. He said the dorsal fin must be the same color as the tail.

Perkins keeps his guppies in a room with the air temperature about 78 degrees. The lights are left on about 14 hours a day. The water temperature is kept at 76- 77 degrees.

Perkins says he feeds his fish about $200 worth of food a year, largely brine shrimp, along with some dry food.

The brine shrimp eggs are incubated in the corner of the fish room for 30 hours until they hatch. The newly-hatched shrimp are then fed to the guppies.

Perkins sells his excess fish to Beldt's Aquarium in St. Louis. He says raising fish has become almost his major preoccupation.

Perkins first came to Sikeston from St. Louis to install the nurse call system at Missouri Delta Community Hospital. He liked the town and decided to stay.

Right now he's trying to organize a tropical fish club in Sikeston. So far he has about six people interested in joining. Anyone who would like to join may call Perkins at 471-8228.

YOUR CHILDREN
MAY KILL YOU

If such an abortion policy had been adopted in the past, many of the great men of the world would never have been permitted to make their outstanding contributions to society. Beethoven is one. There are many others ... Once you permit the killing of the unborn child there will be no stopping. There will be no age limit. You are setting off a chain reaction that will eventually make you the victim.

Your children will kill you because you permitted the killing of their brothers and sisters. Your children will kill you because they will not want to support you in your old age. Your children will kill you for your homes and estates.

If a doctor will take money for killing the innocent in the womb, he will kill you with a needle when paid by your children. This is the terrible nightmare you are creating for the future.

TENUOUS LAOTIAN
NEUTRALITY

For Laos, 10 years of internationally guaranteed neutrality have brought little except turmoil and bloodshed. It was just a decade ago -- on July 23, 1962 – that 14 countries meeting in Geneva signed a Declaration of the Neutrality of Laos. Among other things, the signatories pledged not to (1) "Introduce into ... Laos foreign troops or military personnel in any form whatsoever"; (2) "establish [in Laos] ... any foreign military base, foreign strongpoint or other foreign military installation of any kind"; (3) "use [Laotian territory] ... for interference in the international affairs of other countries."

The Laos Declaration has been honored in the breach. In a March 6, 1970, statement, President Nixon said: "Before the ink was dry on the 1962 Geneva documents, and despite the fact they embodied most of its own proposals, North Viet Nam started violating them." The President apparently referred to the fact that all U. S. military forces left Laos on Oct. 5, 1962, while the North Vietnamese withdrew only a few dozen troops via routes supervised by the International Control Commission. Since that time, North Viet Nam has used the Ho Chi Minh Trail as a supply route to South Viet Nam, and the United States has conducted bombing raids along the trail and on the Plain of Jars.

Nevertheless, the government of Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma has managed to adhere to a policy that is in most respects neutralist. Billions of dollars of American economic and military aid have lent some stability to his regime. At the same time, he remains in contact with both Peking and Hanoi. Frances Starner notes in Far Eastern Economic Review (June 3, 1972) that, "One of the most astonishing facts of life in Vientiane is that the [Communist] Pathet Lao contingent continues to coexist beside the U. S. embassy and that North Vietnamese -- fighting Laotian forces near the Plain of Jars and near the Bolovens Plateau – enter and leave the city freely." True neutrality, however, probably will remain out of the reach of Laos until the Indochina war is settled.

TANNING?
KEEP YOUR HEAD!

A golden tan can make your hair look dull by comparison. The solution? Make your hair as ravishing as your skin. Hair color kits give you color that becomes part of you and your summer scene, not the other way around. They let you be you, only better. And you can forget those old wives' tales that warned you never to go into the sun without a hat or scarf if you color your hair! Noted haircolorists believe that bare-headed is better. The perspiration caused by a headcovering can be more harmful to your carefully chosen hair color than sunlight.

In these modern and changing times, we find ourselves reading a different selection of magazines and books than we did ten years ago. Frankly, some of what we read or scan is over our head, but at least we are aware of what inventive American minds are working on projects that will improve and change the things we use today.

For instance, according to Communication News, RCA recently demonstrated an experimental automobile radar designed to prevent highway rearend collisions by tracking cars ahead and sounding a warning when separation distances become unsafe.

The compact radar, mounted on the front of a car, transmits a continuous signal which is received by a novel, passive reflector on the rear of the vehicle ahead.

By measuring the time required for the signal's round trip, the radar calculates distance to the car in front and flashes a light and sounds a buzzer when the separation distance decreases below one car length for each 10 miles - per -hour of speed the car carrying the radar. Range of the radar is 100 yards.

RCA scientists believe that an operational system, including both the transmitting - receiving radar and the special reflector, can be mass produced within five years at a cost to the consumer of $50 to $100 per car.

THE STORY BEHIND
BUILDING COSTS

The July, 1972, issue of The Reader's Digest contains an article entitled "The Scandal Behind Soaring Construction Costs." It tells in detail of the make-work and cost-inflating union practices that have been imposed on the building industry. The author of the article, Edward M. Young, devoted most of 1971 traveling some 30,000 miles and interviewing more than 500 representatives of construction companies.

Leaving out the more extreme instances, such as that of a master mechanic who earns $94,000 a year - ineluding $76,000 in overtime -- the revelations are still beyond belief. Writes Mr. Young: "In 1926, when masons were getting $1.50 an hour (with no fringe benefits), one mason could lay 600 blocks a day. Today, the masons getting about $9 an hour -- and two masons required to handle the block -- the contractor says he is lucky to get 100 blocks a day from the pair. In 1926, when concrete was finished by hand, the contractor figured on getting 2,000 square feet of finished concrete per man per day. Today, with the help of labor -saving vibrators, mechanical screeds and power trowels, he gets 600 square feet."

The author tells of a case of push-button machines on a government job that ran unattended all day being presided over by engineers who merely turned them on and shut them off at night at a cost of $2,500 a day, of electricians who must be on hand night and day when temporary lights are used; of temporary heating systems that must be attended by operating engineers on an around - the - clock basis, although as one contractor said, "It's like paying some guy $8 to $10 an hour to watch the oil burner in my home."

Examples such as these were cited, and the author concludes: "The picture must change before higher wages and low productivity price construction -- and badly needed homes, schools and hospitals -- right out the market."

Public Utilities Fortnightly reports that a Swede is more likely to own a television set than is an American. The average Norwegian uses twice as much electricity as the average U. S. citizen. Has the U. S. been surpassed as the wrold's leading consumer society? Not quite. According to a survey recently released by the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development. the United States still leads in the number of automobiles, telephones, and level of education per person. But other nations, notably the Scandinavians and Japanese, are fast rivaling the Americans in the amount of per capita consumption.

Merchants know that the effectiveness of their advertising is directly related to the amount of time the consumer has to absorb the advertising message.

This test of advertising was applied to newspapers by a Milwaukee advertising executive who asserted:

"Newspaper readers will spend as much time as an advertisement merits. TV, radio and billboards flash past in seconds and are gone with no chance for study or consideration."

Of course the newspaper readers does not study every advertisement in his paper. There is no reason why he should. But the newspaper reader is likely to glance at every ad. Most important, he automatically selects for study advertisements of goods for which he is a potential buyer.

In this sense, the newspaper is an advertising supermarket. In the newspaper it is possible for any type of merchant to select the most likely prospects for his goods and services. That selection covers the whole local public.

The selection process eliminates the waste of time and effort which is inherent in other media. It puts the consumption of advertising on a voluntary basis.

But no one loses when a mechanic skips over a cosmetic ad, or when a high school girl ignores a fertilizer ad. Neither the retailer nor the individual would gain from the readership of advertising by an improbabl prospect.

In fact, the saving of time provided by selective reading of newspaper advertising works to the advantage of the merchant. It gives real prospects time to study the advertising on which they may act.

NEW YORK (AP) — Most people who ride an urban bus every day probably have a sneaking suspicion that they are patrons of the world's worst bus line.

Patrons of the Second Avenue bus line in Manhattan have no such doubts. They take as a certainty—and with a kind of hardy pride—that theirs is the worst bus line the world has seen since the invention of the wheel.

The riders of the Second Avenue bus line don't call the selves passengers. Afte the second successful ride, they are known as survivors.

They say that the schedule of the Second Avenue bus line is like that of a century plant during the day, and at night like that of a space rocket.

They say that the pace is so creeping on the day buses that a passenger can send away a correspondence school lesson and get the answer back between stops. They say that at night a journey on the Second Avenue bus line is so breathtakingly hectic that many teenagers now take it instead of going to an amusement park for a trip on the roller coaster.

Patrons say the buses are cowards individually and so afraid of muggers that they never go out singly. During the day they crawl along in a twoblock-long file like circus elephants; or at night. they roam the streets in packs, like herds of flaming-eyed movie monsters.

Patrons say that when you get on a Second Avenue bus you never know where you'll wind up and that, except for the intervention of a body of water known as the Atlantic Ocean, it well could be in Marrakech in French Morocco.

Some patrons claim the wait between buses can be so unnerving that it'll turn your hair white. Others simply say the wait is so long you simply turn naturally bald.

Patrons claim that the Second Avenue bus line pays a small reward to any of its drivers who can go along his entire route and avoid picking up any passengers, and that on a typical day between 30 and 40 drivers earn the rewards. Patrons of the Second Avenue bus line say they get together only one day a year—the first day of Spring—which is known as "Bone Collection Day."

The surviving passengers are each given a large basket and then walk along the bus route picking up the bones of wouldbe passengers who perished during the winter while waiting for a bus to come along. Anyone who fills his basket is entitled to keep the skull of his choice as a souvenir or use it as a free bus token for his ride home.

If you doubt the words of these raffish patrons, come to Manhattan and go for a ride on the Second Avenue bus line. Or take two in a row—and you'll become a legend in your own lifetime.

A BARGAIN IN

Despite claims to the contrary, one of the most essential tools of good health..prescription drugs..are, relatively speaking, inexpensive. Of equal importance, they are available to all. Reportedly, the average American spends about $18 a year for prescriptions. Of course, families may well have to spend more than this and sometimes feel their drug bills are inordinately high, even though prescription drugs are among the few things whose price has declined during the current inflationary era.

With a little reflection on alternatives, the cost of prescription drugs quickly shows up as one of the best bargains in life. A prescription drug industry advertisement quotes a mother of three who"...resented our bill for drugs until..." she began checking back to see where the money went. There were immunizations for the children, which suddenly didn't seem so costly when the mother recalled the time when polio was a killer. The drug that relieved the pain of a back strain for her husband, on second thought, did not appear so high in price. The Hong Kong flu also missed the family because of preventive vaccines Then there was a serious ear infection with one of the children that could have deafened him for life, but was cleared up in a few days with a doctor's prescription.

This mother concluded,"...when I consider the alternatives, I've got to feel it was worth the price. We spent a lot more just patching up the old car and never thought twice about it." The alternatives are worth thinking about when we hear someone castigating the U. S. prescription drug industry.

BETTER CONSUMER
BRIDGE TO BUSINESS

The same thing that happened to the NAACP is happening to the BBB.

A few years ago, the old-line National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was rapped by newer, more militant organizations for being too Uncle Tom-ish, too establishment-oriented.

Today, consumer militants are charging the Better Business Bureau with being a creature of business, more concerned about furthering the image than the substance of honest dealing.

Jolted by the rising tide of consumerism and faced with the prospect of tougher and tougher restrictive legislation, business is turning to self-regulation as an answer. The Council of Better Business Bureaus, formed last August, has staked a claim to becoming a bridge between consumers and business to make self-regulation work.

Among other things, the CBBB Has set up five priority targets as part of a program to revitalize the BBB network of 150 bureaus in the United States and Canada.

* Upgrading and expansion of local bureaus by adding more staff workers and telephones, (Inability to get thru by phone has been one of the bitterest consumer complaints against the BBB.) The council also intends to open regional offices in areas not yet served by bureaus.

* Updating and strengthening of self-regulatory guidelines for advertising. The council believes that advertisers, faced with a choice between the golden rule of voluntary compliance with industry codes and the iron rule of government regulation, will support this program.

* Expansion of consumer education programs. For instance, the council will sponsor courses and distribute films on such subjects as buying on credit and repair services.

* Creation of mediation panels to settle consumers' disputes with business. Such panels, which can save the public the expense and aggravation of going to court, are presently functioning in a number of cities in the automotive, dry cleaning and home improvement and furniture fields.

A recent court decision gives promise that the foregoing will prove to be more than just fancy public relations.

In an unanimous decision handed down on June 22 by the five-judge Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of New York State, the Council of Better Business Bureaus was cleared of libel and slander charges in a major case involving its exposure of false advertising.

The court threw out a $2-million suit brought against the council by a chain if body-contouring salons after a bulletin of BBB called its advertising unsubstantiated and not in the public interest.

This higher court decision has given a real boost to the council and its member bureaus in their efforts to root out false and misleading advertising.

ONE MORE INCREASE
OF FEDERAL POWER

The economic policies of the Administration fall into a consistent pattern of increasing federal control, with wage and price controls the most obvious example. The revenue sharing scheme recently approved by the House of Representatives is another way by which Washington intends to centralize power.

A bi-partisan group of Congressmen, members of the House Ways and Means Committee, have issued a strong statement pointing out the dangers inherent in revenue sharing. In their statement, they declared that revenue sharing "takes the unprecendent step of underwriting, at the federal level, the general governmental expenditures of state and local governments. The dependence of state and local governments on federal largess to meet their basic governmental responsibilities will result in the federal government eventually prescribing how state and local governments must meet their responsibilities." They thus pinpointed the essential problem with revenue sharing: when the money comes from Washington, control as to its use soon follows.

The statement quoted committee chairman Wilbur Mills, who termed revenue sharing "a Trojan horse from which at the appropriate time will spring new rules and strictures on the activities of those very governmental bodies who are being wooed by this gift from Troy."

The primary check on local governments is that the people can vote out of office the local officials who spend too much money or spend it for the wrong things. The decisions are made at the level closest to the people and are therefore most subject to the people's control. When the money and decisions come from Washington, our citizens will have very little to say about what is done. HLH.

Inside (Both) White Houses: Nixon's New Coalition Smashes An Old Era

WASHINGTON – There's just one vital matter I can't report about a recent Richard Nixon-George Meany breakfast rap session. I know where and when they met. I know what they ate. But I don't know what they discussed. But whatever it was, they did discuss it in real friendly fashion. And they've been in regular telephone communication.

These fellows are pros. They are politicians, they accept it. They don't try to break each other's back in a Sunday afternoon ball game even at the height of the political season. There are more games coming.

That's the difference between the President and Sen. McGovern, the "in" labor crowd says. The Dakotan, whom Teamsters chief Frank (Fitz) Fitzsimmons calls "Big Brother," is a back-smasher, they say . The Senator is going for broke. He's trying to break their political backs.

And that's what's smashed the 40-year-old coalition of labor and Democrats launced by the thunderers, Franklin D. Roosevelt and John Llewellyn Lewis, the late king of coal. That's the significance of the turbulence, splintering and whirlwind side-taking inside labor for and against Dick Nixon and George McGovern.

If there is a second Republican administration, Richard Nixon will have replaced Franklin Roosevelt in the coalition. There's been a leveling. Nixon can talk right - on with the labor skates. McGovern, surrounded by world-famed intellectuals who have derided the crusty labor chiefs who are virtually all self-made, self-educated, can't reach them. His is the ghost-written "come- home-America" language of John Kenneth Galbraith, Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., and the lawns of Harvard instead of the halls of labor.

Just look at what happened at the San Clemente White House over the weekend and on Monday afternoon. The "Teamos" International Executive Board, on which Jimmy Hoffa now has but one last - ditch friend, was meeting at the La Costa Hotel and Spa some 25 miles south of Richard Nixon.

Socializing with the boys on Sunday and until the early Monday morning hours were two of the President's best political broken -field runners – Charles (Chuch) Colson and Donnie Rodgers, special consultant on labor to the President and actually the ambassador from the nation's hard hats to the inner court of the Executive office Building cheek by jowl with the President's hideaway.

The crowd wouldn't give a spilled scotch and soda for an original Galbriaith rewrite of Niccolo Machiavelli. They, the Teamos, the hard hats, the establishment of labor, were about to smash tradition. The next day they voted, with the exception of St. Louis -- based fourth vice president Harold Gibbons, soon to be in Hanoi, to go Republican as well as endorse the President.

Then at one o'clock Fitz telephone San Clemente. He wanted to bring the board in to see the President. Soon they were driving the 25 miles. Once with the President, Fitz told Mr. Nixon how much they admired him. It was like a nomination in a labor "temple." Proletarian speeches – by Dick Nixon as well as Fitz and Teamster fifth vice president, New York's "Mr. T," Joe Trerotola.

In riposte, the President said: We have an open-door policy towards labor. It is wise for labor not to be in one party's pocket. Meaning the Democrats of course. In the words of one Teamo: "There was lots of joking and horsing around. Then the President took us out to his mini-golf course. I think it has three or four holes. He picked up a club and swung. He let go a terrific drive – from one green to another. Then he said, line up men. One rod, one green. Let me show you how to hit a ball on this course."

Later, after an hour and a half, the President saw them to their cars. And he offered drivers to the Teamsters -- golf clubs, that is. Said he: "Tell you what I'll do. To the first man here who goes out and scores a hole-in-one I will give the set of clubs with which we played."

Sure they were on the course -- and on course – the next day. As Fitz has been saying to audiences around the nation -- there's no percentage in labor boycotting Republicans because they're Republicans. He has called for labor to unite behind whoever is in the White House.

There is more here. For years AFL- CIO president George Meany, now one of the world's top newsmakers, has been the sole spokesman for powerful labor. The White House doors, front, side and back, and the switchboards always have been open to him. And they still are. But now the other labor chiefs want a piece of the action. For the most part, the Democrats, playing the regular Meany channel, have tuned the others out for decades.

Now, as Fitz told me recently the Teamsters "don't want to lose" their "identity." They see in the Nixonian Republican party what their elders saw in the Roosevelt New Deal – a partnership. Mutual delivery. So they're linging up as their elders once did. They're going with the man who has opened the White House to them -- the 2.3 million -member Teamsters union; the 3.5 million- member building trades coalition (though not formally) and many of the maritime unions. They are the middle class (upper); the higher-income bracket proletariat; the skilled craftsman. If their man wins, the rest of labor will have to come to them as labor has been coming to Meany for decades.

This too is the new coalition, new era and some mighty new politics.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON -- Chinese dope magnates in Bangkok, Hong Kong and Singapore have joined forces with Mafia overlords from Corsica to flood the United States and Canada with heroin.

Millions worth of the lethal powder have already been smuggled into North America in body packs strapped to Chinese ship jumpers and in attache cases of diplomats.

To stop the smuggling, alarmed American agents and Canadian mounties have also joined forces. Their undercover effort is known by the code name, "Operation Sea Wall."

The fascinating story is told in a classified report, which describes how a staggering $220 million worth of heroin piled up in secret Asian warehouses after the U.S. troop withdrawals from Vietnam.

The departure of their GI customers left the Chinese drug traffickers with a huge surplus of joy dust on their hands. The heroin had been flowing into their warehouses from the "Golden Triangle" of Thailand, Laos and Burma.

At hushed meetings in their lacquered drawing rooms and counting houses, the Chinese concluded they would have to follow their customer home and open new markets in America. Or, as the secret report puts it, they decided "to try their 'joss" (luck) in a new area."

The Chinese syndicate made contact with the Corsican Mafia, whose smuggling organization had been moving heroin from Europe to New York. A federal crackdown had closed many of their underground routes, so the Corsicans were looking for new connections.

CORSICAN CONNECTION

They jetted to Asia and struck a deal with the Chinese. The secret report suggests that the Chinese- Corsican talks confirmed "the longstanding, heretofore unverifiable reports of a Chinese- Corsican connection ..."

Learning of the ominous new entente, federal narcotics czar John Ingersoll took the lead in setting up "Operation Sea Wall" on April 7. He enlisted the assistance of the Central Intelligence Agency, Immigration Service and the Canadian mounties.

Their purpose: "to interdict the flow of heroin from the Far East before it reaches even more serious proportions."

Only four days later, government agents arrested seven Chinese in New York City, six of them ship jumpers. The seven sullen smugglers carried heroin worth $500,000.

This New York haul, according to the secret report, was a mere fraction of a $4.5 million shipment "which originated in Bangkok and was evidently delivered by a European diplomat assigned to Thaliland. Sensitive sources have revealed that more shipments, sponsored by other groups, are on the way. Arrests are anticipated."

The Chinese seamen, most of them from non- communist Asian countries, have been slipping into Canada and the United States in increasing numbers. The smugglers sneak ashore from foreign flag ships often with as much as $100,000 to $200,000 worth of heroin strapped to their bodies.

"The typical Chinese seaman, who smuggles heroin, brings one to two kilograms each trip," reports the secret document. "He can easily body pack or conceal this amount in his bags. (He) has bought the contraband in Hong Kong, paying $2,000 to $3,700 a kilogram.

THE PAYOFF

"With the proceeds acquired for accomplishing this task, he can fade into one of the many Chinese communities in the United States." Indeed, the report adds: "In several instances, the heroin was carried to provide payments for shelter and assistance to the illegal emigre."

Hundreds of ship jumpers have paid to get private legislation pushed through Congress, permitting them to remain in the country.

In Miami, a Chinese seaman was caught with 10 kilograms – about $1 million worth -- of heroin last April. It was "packed in plastic bags carrying the familiar 'Double Uoglobe' (cq) brand name, indicating it was produced in a heroin laboratory in Laos."

In addition to Miami, Asian Heroin has been smuggled into the United States through Vancouver, San Francisco and New York. The secret report also cites Seattle and Portland as "probable" operation centers.

In addition to the ship jumpers, says the document, "Bangkok dealers have employed individuals with diplomatic passports to deliver as much as 20 kilograms of heroin at a time to the United States.

"A case in point is Philippine diplomat Domingo Canieso, arrested ... in New York City in possession of 17 kilograms of 'Double Uoglobe' heroin, along with his controller from Bangkok, Chou Hsiu-ch'ien.

"This was Canieso's third trip to the United States. At least one previous time, he was accompanied by a known Chinese heroin dealer in Bangkok."

Footnote: The State Department has put out misleading, softsoap statements about the rush of heroin into the United States from Asia. It was to counter this pollyana attitude that we decide to break secrecy on "Operation Sea Wall."

Mrs. King received a broken arm and her son, Gary Ray King, Jr., seven, sustained a broken jaw. Both were taken to a Farmington Hospital.

A one-car accident at 7:40 p.m. six miles west of Lutesville on Highway 34 resulted in injuries to two persons. John Warakonski, 17, of Stann, and Michael Taylor, 17, of Hazelwood both sustained multiple cuts and bruises when their convertible rounded a curve at high speed, ran off the road, struck an embankment and overturned. What's The Law?

The Case Of The Almost Bride

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

The Wolves that turned up nightly at Ellen's door, unfortunately weren't admirers, they were bill collectors. And if it wasn't for her good friend Harvey, who lent her $6,000 she'd never have been able to bail herself out of debt. As it turned out, however, good friend Harvey was actually more interested in Ellen than he was in the loot he had loaned her. Consequently, on bended knee, one creaky night (Harvey wasn't all that young), he offered to cancel the debt if she'd marry him.

While Ellen accepted the offer, she didn't, however, accept quick enough. Several days later, Harvey inconsiderately died. And, if that wasn't bad enough, the cold-blooded administrator of his estate immediately demanded that Ellen repay Harvey's estate the $6,000 bucks that she had borrowed from him.

"You can't be serious," was Ellen's answer. "That debt was cancelled when I agreed to marry Harvey."

"Ah! But, you never did marry him, did you?" responded the administrator. "Therefore, he never got anything in exchange for his promise to cancel the debt and so it still exists. And, as administrator, its my job to collect it."

The dispute ended up in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the almost bride pony up the $6,000?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that when a woman promises to marry a man, her promise is sufficient exchange to wipe out the debt owed to him. (Based upon a 1955 D.C. Municipal Court of Appeals Decision)

Airline Hostess Retires At 60

KANSAS CITY [AP]-- Thirty- six years and 10 million miles after joining Trans World Airlines, Miss Ida Staggers is retiring - the first in her profession to reach the mandatory retirement age of 60.

She plans to do some traveling.

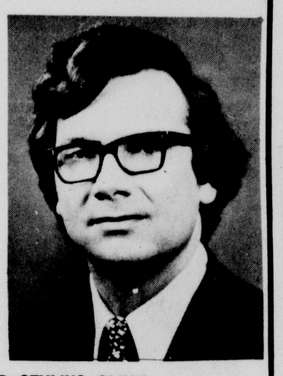

The former Hill City, Kan., farm girl is not bowing out by choice. There have been many changes since she began hostess training in Kansas City in 1936, she said, but she never has grown tired of flying or helping people.

She launched her career at a time when the public considered commercial air travel so risky that hostesses were required to be registered nurses. Miss Staggers was a member of the second group of nurses trained by TWA for the new profession.

She and the four young women who underwent 10 days of training were awarded places aboard the airline's DC - 2s, which seated 14 passengers. A few months later, the larger DC - 3s were put into service. They had sleeping berths for cross-country flights.

Progress, Miss Staggers said, is not without drawbacks. "A lot of the personal aspect is gone. There are just too many people to give your personal attention to."

Ann Landers

Help Given For Man Whose Wife Has MS

Dear Ann Landers: Five years ago we learned that my wife has multiple sclerosis. She managed well until recently. She is becoming severely incapacitated and I know she is depressed. Someone told me that you printed a wonderful letter a few years ago from a man whose wife had M.S. Will you print it again? I need help.--St. Petersburg.

Dear St. Petersburg: That letter appeared in 1966. It would mean little without the original letter so I am printing both.

Dear Ann: For 25 years I have been married to a woman who has multiple sclerosis. If I held an 8-to-5 job I could have a fairly easy life, but I would need to hire a companion for my wife. Instead, I have arranged to be close by and yet not a handmaiden to her. I own and operate a summer camp for boys. In the winter I run a ski lodge.

I'm an active, fun-loving 47. I enjoy mountain climbing, skiing, horseback riding, camping and fishing. I'm becoming frustrated because of what I am missing. I'd give anything to put my arms around a woman and feel the response of her arms around me. I want to walk into a dining room with a woman at my side. I want to dance and swim and hike with a woman who shares my love of nature. I ache for the companionship of a female who can do something with me besides sit.

Is it possible to share such pleasures with another woman without becoming emotionally involved? I doubt it. What's the alternative? What about others who are married to crippled mates? Can you give us some realistic advice?--Signature Withheld On Request.

Dear Friend: It would be easy to respond with pious platitudes but your frankness and honesty deserve better.

Frequently when I lack the knowledge or experience to advise a reader I call on an expert. The expert I have called on today is a Chicago colleague. His answer tells you more about him than I could. Here it is:

Dear Mr.---: Ann Landers has asked me to answer your letter. I do not have Ann's wisdom, but I do have intimate knowledge of your problem since I have lived with it for 19 years.

There is no universal solution because the needs and the temperament of individuals differ. A solution that makes sense to me may be unacceptable to you.

You say many normal activities are denied you because of your wife's affliction. I hope you have not magnified the importance of these activities merely because you feel you are being cheated. Some men have wives who can dance all night, but they have unhappy marriages.

Your wife's disability is tragic, but it would be infinitely more tragic if you allowed it to embitter you. Try to think of her misfortune as your opportunity for personal fulfillment. How many people feel truly needed? Well, you are.

If you are frustrated and restless, I suggest you keep it to yourself. Remember your wife is missing some things, too. I also suggest that you steer clear of "companionable" relationships with other women. Such relationships are difficult to control.

The first step in your adjustment is to forget the alternatives. Take your wife with you wherever you can, even in a wheelchair. Keep her hopes alive. Encourage her to exercise and do whatever she can to feel useful. I work with my wife every evening in therapy sessions. She has given me some real lessons in courage.

We all admire maturity, selflessness and compassion but no one is born with these qualities. Circumstances have given you a rare opportunity to acquire them. As Ann Landers says, "It's not what happens to us, but how we take it that counts."--Anonymous, Please.

Sr. Ruth Stars Lose In State

JEFFERSON CITY — Sikeston's Senior Babe Ruth All-Stars find their backs to the wall today in the double-elimination state tournament after absorbing a 3-2 eight-inning defeat Thursday at the hands of the defending champion Jefferson City All-Stars.

Manager Arnold Stewart's team faced a similar situation in its drive toward the district title last week against a SeMo All-Star team after dropping a 16-1 decision in the first game of the series, but battles back to win a 13-inning marathon 3-2 and then fought off a seventh-inning rally to claim a 9-6 win for the district title and a repeat appearance in the state event where it placed second last season.

However, the competition appears tougher this year and Sikeston must win the next four games to claim the state title and advance to the West Plains Regional at Brookland Center, Minn.

Fate was against Sikeston Thursday night with several disputed calls building a wall around the Sikeston offense. More than one call at the plate was in bitter dispute and, in fact, the umpire admitted missing one of the questionable decisions, but the confession came too late for correction.

Errors put a damper on the defense for bothsides with only one of the runs being earned.

Eddie McDowell performed the bulk of Sikeston's mound duty, going seven innings to strike out six Jeff City players and collect the loss Mike Mitchell came in to relieve McDowell in the eighth inning. Jeff City's hurler Robinson went the full eight innings, fanning eight batters and running off with the win.

Sikeston brought in its two markers in third innings. First baseman Paul Johnson paced the squad with two hits in two attempts. Jefferson City spaced its scoring with one run each in the first, fourth and eighth innings. Robinson and second baseman Morrow led the winners at the plate with doubles.

The Sikeston Stars play in the first game at 6:30 tonight, battling the NeMo All-Stars of Macon.

Unbeatens Collide

Shortstop Bruce Lawrence and left-fielder Dewayne Selph blasted triples and catcher Charlie Miller connected for a double to ignite a six- run second-inning rally that paved the way to Sikeston's soaring 9 - 2 victory over their Tri-County contenders in Thursday night's Junior Babe Ruth District Tournament encounter at VFW Stadium.

The Chaffee Junior Ruth squad smashed the struggling East Prairie forces, bringing 11 men across the plate in a fourth- inning attack en route to a 17 - 8 win in the parallel contest.

Ricky Taylor took the win for Sikeston in the pitching department by going a full seven innings. Tri-County's Anderson bore the loss.

Chaffee send Whitaker to the mound to take the victory honors, outdueling the combined forces of Helms, Jones and Carlyle for East Prairie. Helms was the loser.

The Sikeston forces are slated for a rematch with Chaffee tonight at 7 at V.F.W. Stadium. The two clashed Tuesday with Sikeston taking a 7 - 0 victory. Tri- County battles East Prairie in tonight's second game at 9.

Excitement Builds

Pete Cirrintano

Excitement has already begun to build in the spirits of the players, school administrators and coaching staff as fall drills for the 1972 version of the Sikeston High School football season draws near.

The countdown stands at 25 today. That's the number of days before the 1972 version of the SHS grid team huddles with new coach Pete Cirrintano and his assistants to begin preparation for the Sept. 8 opener at Farmington.

A 10- game schedule, with new additions Farmington and Union City, Tenn., spicing regular encounters with the seven Northern Division league rivals and the annual battle with a Memphis, Tenn., grid club. This year it will again be Fairley High after recent battles with White Station.

The majority of the excitement has been generated by the young new 25- year- old bachelor coach of the Bulldogs, who has been laying plans for returning SHS to supremacy in the sport it dominated through the 40's, 50's and early 60's.

"It's not going to be an overnight miracle," the straight- forward new coach emphasized. "But, with the tradition that SHS has and the enthusiasm of the townspeople and community, I feel this is a sizable asset toward attaining my goals."

SHS hasn't figured in the Northern Division title since 1968, the last season of the immortal Bill Sapp. Coach Sapp retired after 17 seasons and a trophy case full of league titles to become an assistant administrator, a position he holds today.

Cape Girardeau Central has been the dominating grid unit in the district since and has drawn great praise from the new Bulldog head mentor: "I'm very impressed with Cape," coach Cirrintano noted after viewing films of the Bengal unit which has won three straight Northern championships and has been in two straight state playoff battles. "They're (Cape Central) well organized, have an outstanding coaching staff and have started their own tradition of winning. The size and physique of the athletes show they have a great program."

One of the biggest deterrants to the SHS grid program in recent years has been the elimination of the sport in junior high. The program was discontinued in 1969 because of a number of reasons, the main thought centering on the theory that it discouraged a number of boys who failed to make the starting units.

"I definitely feel that a program in the seventh and eighth grades is an asset to a high school program," coach Cirrintano commented. "A junior high athletic program helps build spirit and leadership and teaches the basic fundamentals of the sport." He noted he would work toward establishing the program again.

Coach Cirrintano and his assistants, George Hale, John Heacox, Murray Sullivan, Jim Graham and Martin Bass, will welcome 18 lettermen on Aug. 15 for the opening of drills. Included in that number are six offensive and five defensive returning starters.

Two- a- day drills will be held until the opening of school, the first year coach noted. "We'll also have chalk talks throughout the week."

Although SHS will have one of the district's most noted passers in Bill Colwick this season, coach Cirrintano pointed out that he'll initiate a new offense which will concentrate on a ground attack.

The countdown continues and the enthusiasm builds under the new leadership of Pete Cirrintano.

Brock, Simmons Make Star Team

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three top hitters in the National League were among the 11 plyers nemed by manager Danny Murtaugh to round out the 28 man National League squad for the All-Star game in Atlanta next Tuesday.

The trio includes Cesar Cedano of Houston, leading the league in batting, and Billy Williams of Chicago and Manny Sanguillen of Pittsburgh, whose averages all are among the top five in the league.

Murtaugh, manager of the 1971 Pittsburgh Pirates World Championship team who is coming out of retirement for the All-Star fray, also announced Tuesday that managers Charlie Fox of the San Francisco Giants and Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals will serve as coaches.

The eight starting players elected by fans and a nine man pitching staff were announced earlier.

Here are the additions:

Catchers, Sanguillen and Ted Simmons of St. Louis; infielders, second baseman Glenn Beckert of Chicago, first baseman Nate Colbert of San Diego, third baseman Ron Santo of Chicago and shortstop Chris Speier of San Francisco; and outfielders, Lou Brock of St. Louis, Cedeno, Willie Mays of New York, Al Oliver of Pittsburgh and Williams.

Mays, traded to the Mets by San Francisco in May, holds seniority on the team. He has played in 22 games dating back to 1954. His All-Star records include: Most hits 23, at-bats 72, runs 20, stolen bases 6 and putouts 53.

Santo is next in line and will be making his eighth appearance.

This will be number five for Williams, four for Beckert, three for Brock and two for Sanguillen and Colbert.

Cedeno, Oliver, Simmons and Speier will be making their AllStar debuts.

Pitcher Ferguson Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs has been named to replace ailing Gary Nolan of Cincinnati on the 1972 National League All Star team.

League President Charles S. Feeney said Thsrsday Nolan has a stiff neck and shoulder and will be forced to miss his regular turn Sunday against Pittsburgh.

Both Jenkins and Nolan are right-handers.

Jenkins, making his third appearance with the All-Stars, has a 12-8 record so far this season. In 186 innings he has fanned 119, walked 37 and allowed 154 hits and has an earned run average of 2.85.

Big Red Camp Full

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) — The St. Louis football Cardinals have a full contingent of 76 players on hand at their 1972 summer training camp here today, after the last group of Big Red veterans arrived Wednesday night.

The team released five players from the squad Wednesday after reviewing the results of physical examinations.

Veteran running-back Paul White was released because he had not fully recovered from a knee operation, a team spokesman said.

Also eliminated were quarterback Mike Cilek, kicker Bill Dement, defensive end John Hoover and center Gene Macken.

The team announced a number of player signings Wednesday.

Minister Conducts Judo-Karate Camp

BROWNSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Rev. Mike Craine, who says he can shatter a 300-pound block of ice with his hand, recommends karate as a help in warding off sin.

"Karate is something you really have to work at if you want to do it well. Likewise, you have to make a real effort if you want to be a good Christian," said the Rev. Mr. Crain, who organized a week-long Judo and Karate for Christ Camp, which ended here July 14.

The camp attracted nearly 140 participants, including beginners and karate and judo veterans from nearly 20 states, he said.

The campers, including a 57-year-old New York man who is the oldest in the group, got up early and exercised most of the day, including many hours of karate and judo instructions.

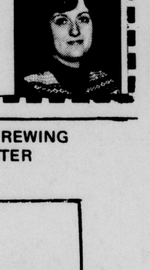

A minister at the camp, the Rev. Jerry Adamson of Madisonville, Ky., said, "To many people, a minister is a fellow in a white shirt and tie who never sweats and is better than everybody else.

"Some people aren't impressed by anything but physical power, and if you can impress them this way first, you have their attention and can talk with them about Jesus," he said.

First Baptist Plans Special Music Program

Prior to beginning new employment next month in Atlanta, Ga., Miss Janet Gwaltney, church pianist for more than seven years, will be featured at the piano for a sermon in song at the 7:30 p.m. service Sunday at First Baptist Church, 1101 North Main St.

Assisting Miss Gwaltney in the sermon in song will be Joe Williams, minister of music.

In addition to being pianist, she has served the church's music program as graded choir leader and director.

In Atlanta, Miss Gwaltney will be employed as a music specialist in the Fulton County school system. She has taught music in New Madrid and Bloomfield schools while serving as church pianist.

First Baptist also recently honored Miss Neva Mae Taylor, church organist of many years, with reception and plaque. Miss Taylor has moved to Nashville, Tenn.

Airport Chapels Proving Popular

By REV. DAVID POLING

One dictionary that we use defines "chapel" as "a place of worship subordinate to a church, especially in a college or hospital." While hospitals and colleges may head the list in number, military and prison chapels are everywhere present.

As the religious community becomes more and more institutionalized, chapels are bound to flourish as an extension of the church.

The newest chapels, rather the newest outposts where chapels have been established, are at the major airports. In New York, Boston and Chicago's O'Hare, there is a regular program of worship service and full-time counsel offered by clergymen. In each setting, the approach does vary, but the activity and ministry is definitely on the increase.

In New York, the Protestant-Catholic-Jewish houses of worship form a dramatic cluster in the outer reaches of Kennedy. The architecture of the buildings and the central location is most appealing.

But Kennedy has traffic problems and one can hardly walk from any of the air terminals to the chapels without dashing across four-lane target areas. One must take bus or cab to reach the location, discouraging to those who have less than half an hour for such a visit.

At Logan Field in Boston, the chapel can be reached by a five- or 10-minute walk from almost any direction. Our last visit was during a Sunday afternoon in July—and the chapel was crowded, with a wedding in progress. Some 70 or 80 people had gathered for a Roman Catholic service and the priest and chapel was just what they wanted.

It appears that the airport chapels (there are only three fully staffed centers that we know of in the United States and none overseas) serve a resident community of airline personnel and staff as much as they assist the travelers.

At O'Hare, the chapel is four levels down in the basement, surrounded by steam pipes and air-conditioning vents. Yet a lively, attractive worship center has been created and attendance is good.

At O'Hare, the ecumenical touch is what counts. Protestants and Catholics share fully the same facilities, with the Community of Our Lady of Loreto served full-time by Father John J. Keough.

Our last Sunday attendance was during the winter. The services were given good publicity over the public address system of the airport and at least 100 showed up for the 1:10 p.m. mass. Here again, it seemed that baggage handlers, car rental clerks and air line staffers were the majority of those present.

One does not recall railroad stations having chapels—although Traveler's Aid was always ready and waiting. The airports see thousands of people an hour at the larger terminals and many of these are families and individuals in great trouble. Some are hurrying to a loved one close to death. Others are returning from a funeral or family tragedy.

Confessions and Forgiveness

How does one seek forgiveness?

Much difficulty comes from our inability or our unwillingness to admit our sin or to admit making a mistake.

The saying that "confession is good for the soul" is correct. However, any confession is difficult to obtain. Before we can experience forgiveness we first must experience repentance and confession.

The writer of Psalm 51 is unknown, although it might have been David. It vividly describes David's great sin, the taking of another man's wife and sending that man away to die.

David had been chosen by God to be a king. He had been rescued from Saul's powers and had been promised many blessings by the Lord, who was extremely upset by David's transgression.

David admitted that he had sinned against the Lord. In this Psalm we see the greatest of all prayers in our literature a prayer that combines the agony of sin with the beauty of its forgiving.

The sinner who repents is the near saint. "I admit I made a mistake," is the hardest statement we have to say.

The Lord spoke to David through the prophet Nathan, who related an incident before the king about the way a rich man treated a poor man.

When David quickly admitted that the rich man deserved to die, Nathan said, "You are the man. This the word of the Lord the God of Israel to you."

The Lord forgave David after the king begged to be saved. However, David was punished when the Lord took his young son from him.

David's act in taking Bathsheba was no doubt the custom of his day. To many a king could do no wrong. What then, was so remarkable about this incident?

David was unique. He realized that he had committed a sin in the eyes of God and he confessed this sin. Certainly it was unusual for a king to act in such a manner.

Nathan, too, was unusual. He risked his life in rebuking David. Prophets through the ages have denounced wickedness and injustice. Some have succeeded, such as Nathan others, however, have not been so successful.

Much confusion exists about the definition of sin. The Psalmist considers three categories of sin:

(1) Transgression, which is the deliberate sin. In this group we see the son who rebels against his father. We also see the person who walks across the "No Trespassing" sign.

(2) Iniquity. In this group we list injustice, corruption, and crookedness. Racial bigotry and the taking of bribes fit here.

(3) Plain sin. This is a violation of the divine word. It involves the person who cheats God in any manner.

According to Tarbell's Teacher's Guide, God has three ways of offering forgiveness:

(1) He can blot out its stain.

(2) He can wash our hearts clean of evil and put good in its place.

(3) He can cleanse us as a refiner cleanses metal from its dross.

According to history we are all born in sin. According to many we are unable to refrain from sinning. The Psalmist knew this. He also knew it was necessary for all of us to have our hearts renewed from time to time.

Certainly Christ recognized our problems when He said on the Cross, "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do."

If He could ask forgiveness for our sins, is it expecting too much when He asks us to make the first move? Father, forgive us our sins.

Hoffman Voices Views On Church

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Lutheran Church broadcaster Dr. Oswald Hoffman said Sunday if the church fails it is because of a lack of confidence in religious teachings.

There is a natural religion which appeals to many people today, which offers hope to the people of "somehow saving themselves, of solving the problems by themselves," he said.

Dr. Hoffman, speaker for the Lutheran Hour radio show, was in St. Louis for the annual convention of the Lutheran Laymen's League. About 6,000 persons attended the meeting, which ran through Wednesday.

Manning said the film cleared up many misunderstandings, and he reminded those concerned with nissance possibilities that the $500 fine for littering should keep private haulers from improperly transporting the trash.

Presiding Judge Les D. Lankford said he thought most of those attending were from the Morley area. There has been some controversy in this area over a proposed site for a Scott County sanitary landfill near the Highway 61-77 junction. Lankford pointed out that no site has been picked and explained that there are several sites under consideration in a seven- county area.

Manning said the ideal location in Scott County for the landfill, as far as availability to the trash, would be west of Highway 61 on Route Z, but soil conditions and water table levels in this area made it unsuitable for a sanitary landfill site. Therefore, Manning explained, the Scott County site should be as close to this area as possible.

Airport Petitions Secured

CHARLESTON -- In an all-out effort to promote a county-wide airport bond issue election to be held in connection with the Aug. 8 primary, the recently formed airport committee rounded up the necessary 300 petition signatures in less than 48 hours, turning the signatures in at the county clerk's office Thursday night.

Hunt Wellborn, co-chairman of the committee, which was appointed by Charleston and East Prairie Chambers of Commerce, said today he anticipated no problems in validating the signatures.

The proposed airport would be constructed at the junction of Highway 105 and Route D, four miles south of the Interstate 57 overpass and five miles north of East Prairie.

Backers of the airport proposal say inclusion of the bond issue on the Aug. 8 ballot will save Mississippi County taxpayers from $2,000 to $3,000 -- the cost of a special election.

Land purchase and construction of the airport is estimated at $400,000, but, according to Wellborn, since admission of the Bootheel into the Ozark Regional Planning Commission has qualified the area for additional Federal monies, Mississippi County's share in the cost would amount to about $40,000.

Voter approval of $50,000 is sought however, since federal allocations will not pay for buildings at the airport site. The extra $10,000 is expected to pay for a modest structure.

It is estimated the $50,000 total can be met with a tax levy of two cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Supporters of the issue point out that since the Mississippi County Health Department has reduced its tax levy by two cents per $100 assessed valuation, effective next year, the bond issue will not create a marked increase in taxation.

Case To Be Heard Monday

Bond Allowed To Intervene

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. AP - State Auditor Christopher "Kit" Bond, a Republican candidate for governor, was allowed today to intervene in a Supreme Court suit challenging his residency qualifications.

The court will begin hearing the case at 2 p.m. Monday. The court ruled Thursday that pending a decision on the challenge filed by one of Bond's Republican primary opponents, election clerks cannot put Bond's name on the Aug. 8 primary ballot.

The petition, filed by State Rep. R. J. "Bus" King, R- Clayton, does not name Bond as a defendant. It asks that Bond's name be ordered removed from the primary ballot, contending Bond lived in other states from 1960-68. It does not contest Bond's qualifications as auditor, to which he was elected in 1970.

Missouri's constitution says the governor and auditor must have lived in the state 10 full years before the election. Meanwhile, there were these other developments: -Public records obtained by The Associated Press from Fulton County, Georgia, Superior Court showed Bond's signature on an Aug. 3, 1964 certificate granting him his law license there.

-The St. Louis Globe-Democrat reported that the Internal Revenue Service said Bond paid income taxes in Atlanta in 1963 and in the Baltimore district office in 1964, 1965 and 1966. From 1960-62 and 1967-70 he paid taxes at the Missouri office.

Bond has said he paid part of his taxes in Atlanta in 1964 and part in Missouri. He also has said he worked as a law clerk from July 1, 1963 to June of 1964. Affidavits made public last week showed he applied for a bar exam in Georgia in January of 1964 and passed it in June.

The Aug. 3, 1964 certificate directs the Superior Court in Atlanta:

"Upon his filing with the clerk of Fulton County, it being the county, of the applicant's residence, his original application, certificate of attorneys accompanying same, the oath made in connection with his examination, and the certificate from the board of examiners in which said application is referred by the number 191, said clerk do issue to him a license..."

Peace Officers Told

Nuclear Reactor Is Additional Tool For Law Enforcement

BENTON- Southeast Missouri Peace Officers gathered at the American Legion hall in Benton Thursday afternoon for a crime detection and prevention seminar hosted by Scott County Sheriff John Dennis.

The main speaker for the seminar was Dr. James Vogt of the nuclear research center at University of Missouri in Columbia.

Dr. Vogt discussed how the university's nuclear reactor can help law enforcement agencies in the area. He gave an example of comparing samples of hair to detect possible arsenic poisoning. Paint and fiber samples and gun powder residue are other comparisons run at the reactor.

Dr. Vogt was quick to explain the nuclear reactor's facilities are not a substitute for regular crime labs, such as the one at Cape Girardeau, but merely an additional tool to law enforcement people.

Assisting Dr. Vogt in demonstrating some of the techniques he discussed were Matt Eichor, also of the nuclear research center at Columbia, and Dr. Robert Briner of the Southeast Missouri Crime Lab at Southeast Missouri State College.

Residents Question Landfill

BENTON -- Warren Manning, assistant administrator of Scott County Health Department, said today objections to a sanitary landfill by area residents stemmed, in most cases, from misinformation and misunderstanding of landfills.

Following a film concerning landfills last night at the courthouse, Manning led a question and answer session with the 25 persons attending.

He said most queries showed concern over private hauling of trash which might create a nuisance to the roads

Thursday Record Heat Day

By JUDY STRICKLIN

Thursday was one of the hottest and most humid days Sikeston has had this summer.

Temperatures varied only 18 degrees, from a high of 93 Thursday afternoon to a low of 75 this morning, and humidity was recorded at 80 per cent for the entire day. There was little wind and it was hard to get a "breeze" even riding in your car -- and who wanted all of that hot air anyway?

A Sikeston Light and Water Co. spokesman said this morning that the utility used 27,000 kilowatts of power Thursday. That's a jump of 2,500 from last year's 24,500 kilowatts on the same day.

The company says it has plenty of power and expects no problems this year, but expects to use a large amount of it as the temperature and humidity climb.

High temperatures for the week have held steady around the 90- degree mark, except for Sunday when it only reached 79. The lows have been around 70 degrees.

Sunday through Tuesday's forecast calls for more hot and humid weather with a chance of thunderstorms.

So, turn on your fans — or air- conditioners, put on your coolest clothes, and pant!

Guppies His Major Preoccupation

Fish Fancier Famous Afar

By RON PORTER

It all started eight years ago in St. Louis when his son came home from the neighbors with five guppies in a jar. Floyd Perkins ran out to buy his son an aquarium and ended up becoming fascinated with the fish.

Today, in Sikeston, Perkins has over 3,000 guppies in 72 tanks in the basement of his home at 211 Kennedy Dr.

Here he raises his guppies which have won him about 100 trophies at tropical fish shows, fame among fish fanciers and requests from collectors for guppies to add to their collections.

Perkins has developed two breeds of guppies which have attracted the attention of the fish world. About two years ago he developed the half- black pastel, and from that he bred the yellow albino.

He has shipped his fish all over the country, to Canada and to West Germany. He sent out quite a few half-black pastels free after he developed them, he said, but he'll charge for his new yellow albinos.

Perkins says the fish are judged in contests according to their size, color and shape. He said the dorsal fin must be the same color as the tail.

Perkins keeps his guppies in a room with the air temperature about 78 degrees. The lights are left on about 14 hours a day. The water temperature is kept at 76- 77 degrees.

Perkins says he feeds his fish about $200 worth of food a year, largely brine shrimp, along with some dry food.

The brine shrimp eggs are incubated in the corner of the fish room for 30 hours until they hatch. The newly-hatched shrimp are then fed to the guppies.

Perkins sells his excess fish to Beldt's Aquarium in St. Louis. He says raising fish has become almost his major preoccupation.

Perkins first came to Sikeston from St. Louis to install the nurse call system at Missouri Delta Community Hospital. He liked the town and decided to stay.

Right now he's trying to organize a tropical fish club in Sikeston. So far he has about six people interested in joining. Anyone who would like to join may call Perkins at 471-8228.

YOUR CHILDREN
MAY KILL YOU

If such an abortion policy had been adopted in the past, many of the great men of the world would never have been permitted to make their outstanding contributions to society. Beethoven is one. There are many others ... Once you permit the killing of the unborn child there will be no stopping. There will be no age limit. You are setting off a chain reaction that will eventually make you the victim.

Your children will kill you because you permitted the killing of their brothers and sisters. Your children will kill you because they will not want to support you in your old age. Your children will kill you for your homes and estates.

If a doctor will take money for killing the innocent in the womb, he will kill you with a needle when paid by your children. This is the terrible nightmare you are creating for the future.

TENUOUS LAOTIAN
NEUTRALITY

For Laos, 10 years of internationally guaranteed neutrality have brought little except turmoil and bloodshed. It was just a decade ago -- on July 23, 1962 – that 14 countries meeting in Geneva signed a Declaration of the Neutrality of Laos. Among other things, the signatories pledged not to (1) "Introduce into ... Laos foreign troops or military personnel in any form whatsoever"; (2) "establish [in Laos] ... any foreign military base, foreign strongpoint or other foreign military installation of any kind"; (3) "use [Laotian territory] ... for interference in the international affairs of other countries."

The Laos Declaration has been honored in the breach. In a March 6, 1970, statement, President Nixon said: "Before the ink was dry on the 1962 Geneva documents, and despite the fact they embodied most of its own proposals, North Viet Nam started violating them." The President apparently referred to the fact that all U. S. military forces left Laos on Oct. 5, 1962, while the North Vietnamese withdrew only a few dozen troops via routes supervised by the International Control Commission. Since that time, North Viet Nam has used the Ho Chi Minh Trail as a supply route to South Viet Nam, and the United States has conducted bombing raids along the trail and on the Plain of Jars.

Nevertheless, the government of Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma has managed to adhere to a policy that is in most respects neutralist. Billions of dollars of American economic and military aid have lent some stability to his regime. At the same time, he remains in contact with both Peking and Hanoi. Frances Starner notes in Far Eastern Economic Review (June 3, 1972) that, "One of the most astonishing facts of life in Vientiane is that the [Communist] Pathet Lao contingent continues to coexist beside the U. S. embassy and that North Vietnamese -- fighting Laotian forces near the Plain of Jars and near the Bolovens Plateau – enter and leave the city freely." True neutrality, however, probably will remain out of the reach of Laos until the Indochina war is settled.

TANNING?
KEEP YOUR HEAD!

A golden tan can make your hair look dull by comparison. The solution? Make your hair as ravishing as your skin. Hair color kits give you color that becomes part of you and your summer scene, not the other way around. They let you be you, only better. And you can forget those old wives' tales that warned you never to go into the sun without a hat or scarf if you color your hair! Noted haircolorists believe that bare-headed is better. The perspiration caused by a headcovering can be more harmful to your carefully chosen hair color than sunlight.

In these modern and changing times, we find ourselves reading a different selection of magazines and books than we did ten years ago. Frankly, some of what we read or scan is over our head, but at least we are aware of what inventive American minds are working on projects that will improve and change the things we use today.

For instance, according to Communication News, RCA recently demonstrated an experimental automobile radar designed to prevent highway rearend collisions by tracking cars ahead and sounding a warning when separation distances become unsafe.

The compact radar, mounted on the front of a car, transmits a continuous signal which is received by a novel, passive reflector on the rear of the vehicle ahead.

By measuring the time required for the signal's round trip, the radar calculates distance to the car in front and flashes a light and sounds a buzzer when the separation distance decreases below one car length for each 10 miles - per -hour of speed the car carrying the radar. Range of the radar is 100 yards.

RCA scientists believe that an operational system, including both the transmitting - receiving radar and the special reflector, can be mass produced within five years at a cost to the consumer of $50 to $100 per car.

THE STORY BEHIND
BUILDING COSTS

The July, 1972, issue of The Reader's Digest contains an article entitled "The Scandal Behind Soaring Construction Costs." It tells in detail of the make-work and cost-inflating union practices that have been imposed on the building industry. The author of the article, Edward M. Young, devoted most of 1971 traveling some 30,000 miles and interviewing more than 500 representatives of construction companies.

Leaving out the more extreme instances, such as that of a master mechanic who earns $94,000 a year - ineluding $76,000 in overtime -- the revelations are still beyond belief. Writes Mr. Young: "In 1926, when masons were getting $1.50 an hour (with no fringe benefits), one mason could lay 600 blocks a day. Today, the masons getting about $9 an hour -- and two masons required to handle the block -- the contractor says he is lucky to get 100 blocks a day from the pair. In 1926, when concrete was finished by hand, the contractor figured on getting 2,000 square feet of finished concrete per man per day. Today, with the help of labor -saving vibrators, mechanical screeds and power trowels, he gets 600 square feet."

The author tells of a case of push-button machines on a government job that ran unattended all day being presided over by engineers who merely turned them on and shut them off at night at a cost of $2,500 a day, of electricians who must be on hand night and day when temporary lights are used; of temporary heating systems that must be attended by operating engineers on an around - the - clock basis, although as one contractor said, "It's like paying some guy $8 to $10 an hour to watch the oil burner in my home."

Examples such as these were cited, and the author concludes: "The picture must change before higher wages and low productivity price construction -- and badly needed homes, schools and hospitals -- right out the market."

Public Utilities Fortnightly reports that a Swede is more likely to own a television set than is an American. The average Norwegian uses twice as much electricity as the average U. S. citizen. Has the U. S. been surpassed as the wrold's leading consumer society? Not quite. According to a survey recently released by the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development. the United States still leads in the number of automobiles, telephones, and level of education per person. But other nations, notably the Scandinavians and Japanese, are fast rivaling the Americans in the amount of per capita consumption.

Merchants know that the effectiveness of their advertising is directly related to the amount of time the consumer has to absorb the advertising message.

This test of advertising was applied to newspapers by a Milwaukee advertising executive who asserted:

"Newspaper readers will spend as much time as an advertisement merits. TV, radio and billboards flash past in seconds and are gone with no chance for study or consideration."

Of course the newspaper readers does not study every advertisement in his paper. There is no reason why he should. But the newspaper reader is likely to glance at every ad. Most important, he automatically selects for study advertisements of goods for which he is a potential buyer.

In this sense, the newspaper is an advertising supermarket. In the newspaper it is possible for any type of merchant to select the most likely prospects for his goods and services. That selection covers the whole local public.

The selection process eliminates the waste of time and effort which is inherent in other media. It puts the consumption of advertising on a voluntary basis.

But no one loses when a mechanic skips over a cosmetic ad, or when a high school girl ignores a fertilizer ad. Neither the retailer nor the individual would gain from the readership of advertising by an improbabl prospect.

In fact, the saving of time provided by selective reading of newspaper advertising works to the advantage of the merchant. It gives real prospects time to study the advertising on which they may act.

NEW YORK (AP) — Most people who ride an urban bus every day probably have a sneaking suspicion that they are patrons of the world's worst bus line.

Patrons of the Second Avenue bus line in Manhattan have no such doubts. They take as a certainty—and with a kind of hardy pride—that theirs is the worst bus line the world has seen since the invention of the wheel.

The riders of the Second Avenue bus line don't call the selves passengers. Afte the second successful ride, they are known as survivors.

They say that the schedule of the Second Avenue bus line is like that of a century plant during the day, and at night like that of a space rocket.

They say that the pace is so creeping on the day buses that a passenger can send away a correspondence school lesson and get the answer back between stops. They say that at night a journey on the Second Avenue bus line is so breathtakingly hectic that many teenagers now take it instead of going to an amusement park for a trip on the roller coaster.

Patrons say the buses are cowards individually and so afraid of muggers that they never go out singly. During the day they crawl along in a twoblock-long file like circus elephants; or at night. they roam the streets in packs, like herds of flaming-eyed movie monsters.

Patrons say that when you get on a Second Avenue bus you never know where you'll wind up and that, except for the intervention of a body of water known as the Atlantic Ocean, it well could be in Marrakech in French Morocco.

Some patrons claim the wait between buses can be so unnerving that it'll turn your hair white. Others simply say the wait is so long you simply turn naturally bald.

Patrons claim that the Second Avenue bus line pays a small reward to any of its drivers who can go along his entire route and avoid picking up any passengers, and that on a typical day between 30 and 40 drivers earn the rewards. Patrons of the Second Avenue bus line say they get together only one day a year—the first day of Spring—which is known as "Bone Collection Day."

The surviving passengers are each given a large basket and then walk along the bus route picking up the bones of wouldbe passengers who perished during the winter while waiting for a bus to come along. Anyone who fills his basket is entitled to keep the skull of his choice as a souvenir or use it as a free bus token for his ride home.

If you doubt the words of these raffish patrons, come to Manhattan and go for a ride on the Second Avenue bus line. Or take two in a row—and you'll become a legend in your own lifetime.

A BARGAIN IN GOOD HEALTH

Despite claims to the contrary, one of the most essential tools of good health..prescription drugs..are, relatively speaking, inexpensive. Of equal importance, they are available to all. Reportedly, the average American spends about $18 a year for prescriptions. Of course, families may well have to spend more than this and sometimes feel their drug bills are inordinately high, even though prescription drugs are among the few things whose price has declined during the current inflationary era.

With a little reflection on alternatives, the cost of prescription drugs quickly shows up as one of the best bargains in life. A prescription drug industry advertisement quotes a mother of three who"...resented our bill for drugs until..." she began checking back to see where the money went. There were immunizations for the children, which suddenly didn't seem so costly when the mother recalled the time when polio was a killer. The drug that relieved the pain of a back strain for her husband, on second thought, did not appear so high in price. The Hong Kong flu also missed the family because of preventive vaccines Then there was a serious ear infection with one of the children that could have deafened him for life, but was cleared up in a few days with a doctor's prescription.

This mother concluded,"...when I consider the alternatives, I've got to feel it was worth the price. We spent a lot more just patching up the old car and never thought twice about it." The alternatives are worth thinking about when we hear someone castigating the U. S. prescription drug industry.

BETTER CONSUMER
BRIDGE TO BUSINESS

The same thing that happened to the NAACP is happening to the BBB.

A few years ago, the old-line National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was rapped by newer, more militant organizations for being too Uncle Tom-ish, too establishment-oriented.

Today, consumer militants are charging the Better Business Bureau with being a creature of business, more concerned about furthering the image than the substance of honest dealing.

Jolted by the rising tide of consumerism and faced with the prospect of tougher and tougher restrictive legislation, business is turning to self-regulation as an answer. The Council of Better Business Bureaus, formed last August, has staked a claim to becoming a bridge between consumers and business to make self-regulation work.

Among other things, the CBBB Has set up five priority targets as part of a program to revitalize the BBB network of 150 bureaus in the United States and Canada.

* Upgrading and expansion of local bureaus by adding more staff workers and telephones, (Inability to get thru by phone has been one of the bitterest consumer complaints against the BBB.) The council also intends to open regional offices in areas not yet served by bureaus.

* Updating and strengthening of self-regulatory guidelines for advertising. The council believes that advertisers, faced with a choice between the golden rule of voluntary compliance with industry codes and the iron rule of government regulation, will support this program.

* Expansion of consumer education programs. For instance, the council will sponsor courses and distribute films on such subjects as buying on credit and repair services.

* Creation of mediation panels to settle consumers' disputes with business. Such panels, which can save the public the expense and aggravation of going to court, are presently functioning in a number of cities in the automotive, dry cleaning and home improvement and furniture fields.

A recent court decision gives promise that the foregoing will prove to be more than just fancy public relations.

In an unanimous decision handed down on June 22 by the five-judge Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of New York State, the Council of Better Business Bureaus was cleared of libel and slander charges in a major case involving its exposure of false advertising.

The court threw out a $2-million suit brought against the council by a chain if body-contouring salons after a bulletin of BBB called its advertising unsubstantiated and not in the public interest.

This higher court decision has given a real boost to the council and its member bureaus in their efforts to root out false and misleading advertising.

ONE MORE INCREASE
OF FEDERAL POWER

The economic policies of the Administration fall into a consistent pattern of increasing federal control, with wage and price controls the most obvious example. The revenue sharing scheme recently approved by the House of Representatives is another way by which Washington intends to centralize power.

A bi-partisan group of Congressmen, members of the House Ways and Means Committee, have issued a strong statement pointing out the dangers inherent in revenue sharing. In their statement, they declared that revenue sharing "takes the unprecendent step of underwriting, at the federal level, the general governmental expenditures of state and local governments. The dependence of state and local governments on federal largess to meet their basic governmental responsibilities will result in the federal government eventually prescribing how state and local governments must meet their responsibilities." They thus pinpointed the essential problem with revenue sharing: when the money comes from Washington, control as to its use soon follows.

The statement quoted committee chairman Wilbur Mills, who termed revenue sharing "a Trojan horse from which at the appropriate time will spring new rules and strictures on the activities of those very governmental bodies who are being wooed by this gift from Troy."

The primary check on local governments is that the people can vote out of office the local officials who spend too much money or spend it for the wrong things. The decisions are made at the level closest to the people and are therefore most subject to the people's control. When the money and decisions come from Washington, our citizens will have very little to say about what is done. HLH.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON – Chinese dope magnates in Bangkok, Hong Kong and Singapore have joined forces with Mafia overlords from Corsica to flood the United States and Canada with heroin.

Millions worth of the lethal powder have already been smuggled into North America in body packs strapped to Chinese ship jumpers and in attache cases of diplomats.

To stop the smuggling, alarmed American agents and Canadian mounties have also joined forces. Their undercover effort is known by the code name, "Operation Sea Wall."

The fascinating story is told in a classified report, which describes how a staggering $220 million worth of heroin piled up in secret Asian warehouses after the U.S. troop withdrawals from Vietnam.

The departure of their GI customers left the Chinese drug traffickers with a huge surplus of joy dust on their hands. The heroin had been flowing into their warehouses from the "Golden Triangle" of Thailand, Laos and Burma.

At hushed meetings in their lacquered drawing rooms and counting houses, the Chinese concluded they would have to follow their customer home and open new markets in America. Or, as the secret report puts it, they decided "to try their 'joss" (luck) in a new area."

The Chinese syndicate made contact with the Corsican Mafia, whose smuggling organization had been moving heroin from Europe to New York. A federal crackdown had closed many of their underground routes, so the Corsicans were looking for new connections.

CORSICAN CONNECTION

They jetted to Asia and struck a deal with the Chinese. The secret report suggests that the Chinese- Corsican talks confirmed "the longstanding, heretofore unverifiable reports of a Chinese- Corsican connection ..."

Learning of the ominous new entente, federal narcotics czar John Ingersoll took the lead in setting up "Operation Sea Wall" on April 7. He enlisted the assistance of the Central Intelligence Agency, Immigration Service and the Canadian mounties.

Their purpose: "to interdict the flow of heroin from the Far East before it reaches even more serious proportions."

Only four days later, government agents arrested seven Chinese in New York City, six of them ship jumpers. The seven sullen smugglers carried heroin worth $500,000.

This New York haul, according to the secret report, was a mere fraction of a $4.5 million shipment "which originated in Bangkok and was evidently delivered by a European diplomat assigned to Thaliland. Sensitive sources have revealed that more shipments, sponsored by other groups, are on the way. Arrests are anticipated."

The Chinese seamen, most of them from non- communist Asian countries, have been slipping into Canada and the United States in increasing numbers. The smugglers sneak ashore from foreign flag ships often with as much as $100,000 to $200,000 worth of heroin strapped to their bodies.

"The typical Chinese seaman, who smuggles heroin, brings one to two kilograms each trip," reports the secret document. "He can easily body pack or conceal this amount in his bags. (He) has bought the contraband in Hong Kong, paying $2,000 to $3,700 a kilogram.

THE PAYOFF

"With the proceeds acquired for accomplishing this task, he can fade into one of the many Chinese communities in the United States." Indeed, the report adds: "In several instances, the heroin was carried to provide payments for shelter and assistance to the illegal emigre."

Hundreds of ship jumpers have paid to get private legislation pushed through Congress, permitting them to remain in the country.

In Miami, a Chinese seaman was caught with 10 kilograms -- about $1 million worth -- of heroin last April. It was "packed in plastic bags carrying the familiar 'Double Uoglobe' (cq) brand name, indicating it was produced in a heroin laboratory in Laos."

In addition to Miami, Asian Heroin has been smuggled into the United States through Vancouver, San Francisco and New York. The secret report also cites Seattle and Portland as "probable" operation centers.

In addition to the ship jumpers, says the document, "Bangkok dealers have employed individuals with diplomatic passports to deliver as much as 20 kilograms of heroin at a time to the United States.

"A case in point is Philippine diplomat Domingo Canieso, arrested ... in New York City in possession of 17 kilograms of 'Double Uoglobe' heroin, along with his controller from Bangkok, Chou Hsiu-ch'ien.

"This was Canieso's third trip to the United States. At least one previous time, he was accompanied by a known Chinese heroin dealer in Bangkok."

Footnote: The State Department has put out misleading, softsoap statements about the rush of heroin into the United States from Asia. It was to counter this pollyana attitude that we decide to break secrecy on "Operation Sea Wall."

Inside Labor

Inside (Both) White Houses: Nixon's New Coalition Smashes An Old Era

WASHINGTON – There's just one vital matter I can't report about a recent Richard Nixon-George Meany breakfast rap session. I know where and when they met. I know what they ate. But I don't know what they discussed. But whatever it was, they did discuss it in real friendly fashion. And they've been in regular telephone communication.

These fellows are pros. They are politicians, they accept it. They don't try to break each other's back in a Sunday afternoon ball game even at the height of the political season. There are more games coming.

That's the difference between the President and Sen. McGovern, the "in" labor crowd says. The Dakotan, whom Teamsters chief Frank (Fitz) Fitzsimmons calls "Big Brother," is a back-smasher, they say . The Senator is going for broke. He's trying to break their political backs.

And that's what's smashed the 40-year-old coalition of labor and Democrats launced by the thunderers, Franklin D. Roosevelt and John Llewellyn Lewis, the late king of coal. That's the significance of the turbulence, splintering and whirlwind side-taking inside labor for and against Dick Nixon and George McGovern.

If there is a second Republican administration, Richard Nixon will have replaced Franklin Roosevelt in the coalition. There's been a leveling. Nixon can talk right - on with the labor skates. McGovern, surrounded by world-famed intellectuals who have derided the crusty labor chiefs who are virtually all self-made, self-educated, can't reach them. His is the ghost-written "come- home-America" language of John Kenneth Galbraith, Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., and the lawns of Harvard instead of the halls of labor.

Just look at what happened at the San Clemente White House over the weekend and on Monday afternoon. The "Teamos" International Executive Board, on which Jimmy Hoffa now has but one last - ditch friend, was meeting at the La Costa Hotel and Spa some 25 miles south of Richard Nixon.

Socializing with the boys on Sunday and until the early Monday morning hours were two of the President's best political broken -field runners -- Charles (Chuch) Colson and Donnie Rodgers, special consultant on labor to the President and actually the ambassador from the nation's hard hats to the inner court of the Executive office Building cheek by jowl with the President's hideaway.

The crowd wouldn't give a spilled scotch and soda for an original Galbriaith rewrite of Niccolo Machiavelli. They, the Teamos, the hard hats, the establishment of labor, were about to smash tradition. The next day they voted, with the exception of St. Louis -- based fourth vice president Harold Gibbons, soon to be in Hanoi, to go Republican as well as endorse the President.

Then at one o'clock Fitz telephone San Clemente. He wanted to bring the board in to see the President. Soon they were driving the 25 miles. Once with the President, Fitz told Mr. Nixon how much they admired him. It was like a nomination in a labor "temple." Proletarian speeches – by Dick Nixon as well as Fitz and Teamster fifth vice president, New York's "Mr. T," Joe Trerotola.

In riposte, the President said: We have an open-door policy towards labor. It is wise for labor not to be in one party's pocket. Meaning the Democrats of course. In the words of one Teamo: "There was lots of joking and horsing around. Then the President took us out to his mini-golf course. I think it has three or four holes. He picked up a club and swung. He let go a terrific drive – from one green to another. Then he said, line up men. One rod, one green. Let me show you how to hit a ball on this course."

Later, after an hour and a half, the President saw them to their cars. And he offered drivers to the Teamsters -- golf clubs, that is. Said he: "Tell you what I'll do. To the first man here who goes out and scores a hole-in-one I will give the set of clubs with which we played."

Sure they were on the course -- and on course -- the next day. As Fitz has been saying to audiences around the nation -- there's no percentage in labor boycotting Republicans because they're Republicans. He has called for labor to unite behind whoever is in the White House.

There is more here. For years AFL- CIO president George Meany, now one of the world's top newsmakers, has been the sole spokesman for powerful labor. The White House doors, front, side and back, and the switchboards always have been open to him. And they still are. But now the other labor chiefs want a piece of the action. For the most part, the Democrats, playing the regular Meany channel, have tuned the others out for decades.

Now, as Fitz told me recently the Teamsters "don't want to lose" their "identity." They see in the Nixonian Republican party what their elders saw in the Roosevelt New Deal -- a partnership. Mutual delivery. So they're linging up as their elders once did. They're going with the man who has opened the White House to them -- the 2.3 million -member Teamsters union; the 3.5 million- member building trades coalition (though not formally) and many of the maritime unions. They are the middle class (upper); the higher-income bracket proletariat; the skilled craftsman. If their man wins, the rest of labor will have to come to them as labor has been coming to Meany for decades.

This too is the new coalition, new era and some mighty new politics.

What's The Law?

The Case Of The Almost Bride

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

The Wolves that turned up nightly at Ellen's door, unfortunately weren't admirers, they were bill collectors. And if it wasn't for her good friend Harvey, who lent her $6,000 she'd never have been able to bail herself out of debt. As it turned out, however, good friend Harvey was actually more interested in Ellen than he was in the loot he had loaned her. Consequently, on bended knee, one creaky night (Harvey wasn't all that young), he offered to cancel the debt if she'd marry him.

While Ellen accepted the offer, she didn't, however, accept quick enough. Several days later, Harvey inconsiderately died. And, if that wasn't bad enough, the cold-blooded administrator of his estate immediately demanded that Ellen repay Harvey's estate the $6,000 bucks that she had borrowed from him.

"You can't be serious," was Ellen's answer. "That debt was cancelled when I agreed to marry Harvey."

"Ah! But, you never did marry him, did you?" responded the administrator. "Therefore, he never got anything in exchange for his promise to cancel the debt and so it still exists. And, as administrator, its my job to collect it."

The dispute ended up in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the almost bride pony up the $6,000?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that when a woman promises to marry a man, her promise is sufficient exchange to wipe out the debt owed to him. (Based upon a 1955 D.C. Municipal Court of Appeals Decision)

Airline Hostess Retires At 60

KANSAS CITY [AP]-- Thirty- six years and 10 million miles after joining Trans World Airlines, Miss Ida Staggers is retiring - the first in her profession to reach the mandatory retirement age of 60.

She plans to do some traveling.

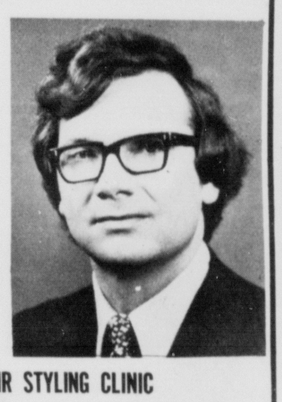

The former Hill City, Kan., farm girl is not bowing out by choice. There have been many changes since she began hostess training in Kansas City in 1936, she said, but she never has grown tired of flying or helping people.

She launched her career at a time when the public considered commercial air travel so risky that hostesses were required to be registered nurses. Miss Staggers was a member of the second group of nurses trained by TWA for the new profession.

She and the four young women who underwent 10 days of training were awarded places aboard the airline's DC - 2s, which seated 14 passengers. A few months later, the larger DC - 3s were put into service. They had sleeping berths for cross-country flights.

Progress, Miss Staggers said, is not without drawbacks. "A lot of the personal aspect is gone. There are just too many people to give your personal attention to."

Ann Landers

Help Given For Man Whose Wife Has MS

Dear Ann Landers: Five years ago we learned that my wife has multiple sclerosis. She managed well until recently. She is becoming severely incapacitated and I know she is depressed. Someone told me that you printed a wonderful letter a few years ago from a man whose wife had M.S. Will you print it again? I need help.--St. Petersburg.

Dear St. Petersburg: That letter appeared in 1966. It would mean little without the original letter so I am printing both.

Dear Ann: For 25 years I have been married to a woman who has multiple sclerosis. If I held an 8-to-5 job I could have a fairly easy life, but I would need to hire a companion for my wife. Instead, I have arranged to be close by and yet not a handmaiden to her. I own and operate a summer camp for boys. In the winter I run a ski lodge.

I'm an active, fun-loving 47. I enjoy mountain climbing, skiing, horseback riding, camping and fishing. I'm becoming frustrated because of what I am missing. I'd give anything to put my arms around a woman and feel the response of her arms around me. I want to walk into a dining room with a woman at my side. I want to dance and swim and hike with a woman who shares my love of nature. I ache for the companionship of a female who can do something with me besides sit.

Is it possible to share such pleasures with another woman without becoming emotionally involved? I doubt it. What's the alternative? What about others who are married to crippled mates? Can you give us some realistic advice?--Signature Withheld On Request.

Dear Friend: It would be easy to respond with pious platitudes but your frankness and honesty deserve better.

Frequently when I lack the knowledge or experience to advise a reader I call on an expert. The expert I have called on today is a Chicago colleague. His answer tells you more about him than I could. Here it is:

Dear Mr.---: Ann Landers has asked me to answer your letter. I do not have Ann's wisdom, but I do have intimate knowledge of your problem since I have lived with it for 19 years.

There is no universal solution because the needs and the temperament of individuals differ. A solution that makes sense to me may be unacceptable to you.

You say many normal activities are denied you because of your wife's affliction. I hope you have not magnified the importance of these activities merely because you feel you are being cheated. Some men have wives who can dance all night, but they have unhappy marriages.

Your wife's disability is tragic, but it would be infinitely more tragic if you allowed it to embitter you. Try to think of her misfortune as your opportunity for personal fulfillment. How many people feel truly needed? Well, you are.

If you are frustrated and restless, I suggest you keep it to yourself. Remember your wife is missing some things, too. I also suggest that you steer clear of "companionable" relationships with other women. Such relationships are difficult to control.

The first step in your adjustment is to forget the alternatives. Take your wife with you wherever you can, even in a wheelchair. Keep her hopes alive. Encourage her to exercise and do whatever she can to feel useful. I work with my wife every evening in therapy sessions. She has given me some real lessons in courage.

We all admire maturity, selflessness and compassion but no one is born with these qualities. Circumstances have given you a rare opportunity to acquire them. As Ann Landers says, "It's not what happens to us, but how we take it that counts."--Anonymous, Please.

Sr. Ruth Stars Lose In State

JEFFERSON CITY — Sikeston's Senior Babe Ruth All-Stars find their backs to the wall today in the double-elimination state tournament after absorbing a 3-2 eight-inning defeat Thursday at the hands of the defending champion Jefferson City All-Stars.

Manager Arnold Stewart's team faced a similar situation in its drive toward the district title last week against a SeMo All-Star team after dropping a 16-1 decision in the first game of the series, but battles back to win a 13-inning marathon 3-2 and then fought off a seventh-inning rally to claim a 9-6 win for the district title and a repeat appearance in the state event where it placed second last season.

However, the competition appears tougher this year and Sikeston must win the next four games to claim the state title and advance to the West Plains Regional at Brookland Center, Minn.

Fate was against Sikeston Thursday night with several disputed calls building a wall around the Sikeston offense. More than one call at the plate was in bitter dispute and, in fact, the umpire admitted missing one of the questionable decisions, but the confession came too late for correction.

Errors put a damper on the defense for bothsides with only one of the runs being earned.

Eddie McDowell performed the bulk of Sikeston's mound duty, going seven innings to strike out six Jeff City players and collect the loss Mike Mitchell came in to relieve McDowell in the eighth inning. Jeff City's hurler Robinson went the full eight innings, fanning eight batters and running off with the win.

Sikeston brought in its two markers in third innings. First baseman Paul Johnson paced the squad with two hits in two attempts. Jefferson City spaced its scoring with one run each in the first, fourth and eighth innings. Robinson and second baseman Morrow led the winners at the plate with doubles.

The Sikeston Stars play in the first game at 6:30 tonight, battling the NeMo All-Stars of Macon.

"Nothing is easier than fault-finding; no talent, no self-denial, no brains, no character are required to set up in the grumbling business."
—Robert West

Unbeatens Collide

Shortstop Bruce Lawrence and left-fielder Dewayne Selph blasted triples and catcher Charlie Miller connected for a double to ignite a six- run second-inning rally that paved the way to Sikeston's soaring 9 - 2 victory over their Tri-County contenders in Thursday night's Junior Babe Ruth District Tournament encounter at VFW Stadium.

The Chaffee Junior Ruth squad smashed the struggling East Prairie forces, bringing 11 men across the plate in a fourth- inning attack en route to a 17 - 8 win in the parallel contest.

Ricky Taylor took the win for Sikeston in the pitching department by going a full seven innings. Tri-County's Anderson bore the loss.

Chaffee send Whitaker to the mound to take the victory honors, outdueling the combined forces of Helms, Jones and Carlyle for East Prairie. Helms was the loser.

The Sikeston forces are slated for a rematch with Chaffee tonight at 7 at V.F.W. Stadium. The two clashed Tuesday with Sikeston taking a 7 - 0 victory. Tri- County battles East Prairie in tonight's second game at 9.

Excitement Builds

Pete Cirrintano

Excitement has already begun to build in the spirits of the players, school administrators and coaching staff as fall drills for the 1972 version of the Sikeston High School football season draws near.

The countdown stands at 25 today. That's the number of days before the 1972 version of the SHS grid team huddles with new coach Pete Cirrintano and his assistants to begin preparation for the Sept. 8 opener at Farmington.

A 10- game schedule, with new additions Farmington and Union City, Tenn., spicing regular encounters with the seven Northern Division league rivals and the annual battle with a Memphis, Tenn., grid club. This year it will again be Fairley High after recent battles with White Station.

The majority of the excitement has been generated by the young new 25- year- old bachelor coach of the Bulldogs, who has been laying plans for returning SHS to supremacy in the sport it dominated through the 40's, 50's and early 60's.

"It's not going to be an overnight miracle," the straight- forward new coach emphasized. "But, with the tradition that SHS has and the enthusiasm of the townspeople and community, I feel this is a sizable asset toward attaining my goals."

SHS hasn't figured in the Northern Division title since 1968, the last season of the immortal Bill Sapp. Coach Sapp retired after 17 seasons and a trophy case full of league titles to become an assistant administrator, a position he holds today.

Cape Girardeau Central has been the dominating grid unit in the district since and has drawn great praise from the new Bulldog head mentor: "I'm very impressed with Cape," coach Cirrintano noted after viewing films of the Bengal unit which has won three straight Northern championships and has been in two straight state playoff battles. "They're (Cape Central) well organized, have an outstanding coaching staff and have started their own tradition of winning. The size and physique of the athletes show they have a great program."

One of the biggest deterrants to the SHS grid program in recent years has been the elimination of the sport in junior high. The program was discontinued in 1969 because of a number of reasons, the main thought centering on the theory that it discouraged a number of boys who failed to make the starting units.

"I definitely feel that a program in the seventh and eighth grades is an asset to a high school program," coach Cirrintano commented. "A junior high athletic program helps build spirit and leadership and teaches the basic fundamentals of the sport." He noted he would work toward establishing the program again.

Coach Cirrintano and his assistants, George Hale, John Heacox, Murray Sullivan, Jim Graham and Martin Bass, will welcome 18 lettermen on Aug. 15 for the opening of drills. Included in that number are six offensive and five defensive returning starters.

Two- a- day drills will be held until the opening of school, the first year coach noted. "We'll also have chalk talks throughout the week."

Although SHS will have one of the district's most noted passers in Bill Colwick this season, coach Cirrintano pointed out that he'll initiate a new offense which will concentrate on a ground attack.

The countdown continues and the enthusiasm builds under the new leadership of Pete Cirrintano.

Brock, Simmons Make Star Team

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three top hitters in the National League were among the 11 plyers nemed by manager Danny Murtaugh to round out the 28 man National League squad for the All-Star game in Atlanta next Tuesday.

The trio includes Cesar Cedano of Houston, leading the league in batting, and Billy Williams of Chicago and Manny Sanguillen of Pittsburgh, whose averages all are among the top five in the league.

Murtaugh, manager of the 1971 Pittsburgh Pirates World Championship team who is coming out of retirement for the All-Star fray, also announced Tuesday that managers Charlie Fox of the San Francisco Giants and Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals will serve as coaches.

The eight starting players elected by fans and a nine man pitching staff were announced earlier.

Here are the additions:

Catchers, Sanguillen and Ted Simmons of St. Louis; infielders, second baseman Glenn Beckert of Chicago, first baseman Nate Colbert of San Diego, third baseman Ron Santo of Chicago and shortstop Chris Speier of San Francisco; and outfielders, Lou Brock of St. Louis, Cedeno, Willie Mays of New York, Al Oliver of Pittsburgh and Williams.

Mays, traded to the Mets by San Francisco in May, holds seniority on the team. He has played in 22 games dating back to 1954. His All-Star records include: Most hits 23, at-bats 72, runs 20, stolen bases 6 and putouts 53.

Santo is next in line and will be making his eighth appearance.

This will be number five for Williams, four for Beckert, three for Brock and two for Sanguillen and Colbert.

Cedeno, Oliver, Simmons and Speier will be making their AllStar debuts.

Pitcher Ferguson Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs has been named to replace ailing Gary Nolan of Cincinnati on the 1972 National League All Star team.

League President Charles S. Feeney said Thsrsday Nolan has a stiff neck and shoulder and will be forced to miss his regular turn Sunday against Pittsburgh.

Both Jenkins and Nolan are right-handers.

Jenkins, making his third appearance with the All-Stars, has a 12-8 record so far this season. In 186 innings he has fanned 119, walked 37 and allowed 154 hits and has an earned run average of 2.85.

Big Red Camp Full

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) — The St. Louis football Cardinals have a full contingent of 76 players on hand at their 1972 summer training camp here today, after the last group of Big Red veterans arrived Wednesday night.

The team released five players from the squad Wednesday after reviewing the results of physical examinations.

Veteran running-back Paul White was released because he had not fully recovered from a knee operation, a team spokesman said.

Also eliminated were quarterback Mike Cilek, kicker Bill Dement, defensive end John Hoover and center Gene Macken.

The team announced a number of player signings Wednesday.

Sports Briefs

BOSTON (AP) — John Killilea, 43, was named today assistant coach of the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association.

A native of Quincy, Mass., Killilea compiled a 314-90 record coaching high school teams in Maine and Massachusetts before joining the Celtics as chief scout last year.

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The Carolina Cougars of the American Basketball Association have named Doug Moe as assistant coach and director of player personnel.

The 34-year-old Moe, a former University of North Carolina star, retired as an active player because of knee surgery he underwent last April. He played five years in the ABA, spending last season with the Virginia Squires.

NEW YORK (AP) — Outfielder Rusty Staub of the New York Mets will undergo surgery on his injured right hand Friday night, the team announced.

Staub was hit by a pitch from Atlanta's George Stone in a June 30, game, but the fracture was not revealed until Wednesday, when the Mets were playing in Los Angeles against the Dodgers. Dr. Herbert Stark told the team that Staub had a fracture of the hook of the hamate bone. It was first diagnosed as a muscle spasm.

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League have signed their first and second choices in the junior amateur draft last June, center-wing Mike Bloom and vdefenseman Wayne Elder.

The Bruins said both signed multi-year contracts and will report to training camp in September.

Playoff Tonight

AMERICAN LEAGUE — Caproco moves into a playoff tonight with Fabick for the Eastern Division title at Puckett Field. Caproco advances to the title bout by demolishing the Police squad in a 15-0 rout Thursday night.

Catcher Griffin blasted a home run and Malcolm, the pitcher, connected for a triple to lead a fourth- inning scoring fiasco with Caproco bringing 11 men across the plate. Third baseman Rhyne collected two doubles.

Malcolm handed Blanton the defeat from the mound.

In the other American League contest, Ziegenhorn rolled over Bridger 8-2. Angle, Nowell and Beebe slammed triples, paving the way to the victory. Nowell paced the squad with two couples. Rowe also had a double.

Hurler Pinkstaff collected the win. Holifield carried the loss.

MUSIAL LEAGUE — Eastern Division Malone & Hyde and Western's Bank of Sikeston pitted their 9-3 slates against each other in the first game of Musial League competition with Bank of Sikeston pulling ahead 6-5 after six hard-fought innings. Malone & Hyde jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first frame, boosted by a double by third baseman Hicks. The Bankers caught Malone & Hyde by surprise in the fourth inning, gathering their forces to score the six runs needed to slip into the lead. Right-fielder Shelton slugged a home run with the bases loaded to lead the attack. Perry assisted with a double.

Chester Williams was the winning pitcher with 12 strikeouts under his belt, handing the loss to Mike Brashear, who also had 12 strikeouts for Malone & Hyde.

Smith had a fourth-inning triple and Jackson and Sindle had two doubles apiece to pull Nunnelee to a 16-9 victory over Rotary in the second Musial league clash.

Kyle and Wiggins had triples for Rotary. King and Sanders collected doubles. Cortez Smith was the winning pitcher. Joey Kyle took the loss.

Minister Conducts Judo-Karate Camp

BROWNSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Rev. Mike Craine, who says he can shatter a 300-pound block of ice with his hand, recommends karate as a help in warding off sin.

"Karate is something you really have to work at if you want to do it well. Likewise, you have to make a real effort if you want to be a good Christian," said the Rev. Mr. Crain, who organized a week-long Judo and Karate for Christ Camp, which ended here July 14.

The camp attracted nearly 140 participants, including beginners and karate and judo veterans from nearly 20 states, he said.

The campers, including a 57-year-old New York man who is the oldest in the group, got up early and exercised most of the day, including many hours of karate and judo instructions.

A minister at the camp, the Rev. Jerry Adamson of Madisonville, Ky., said, "To many people, a minister is a fellow in a white shirt and tie who never sweats and is better than everybody else.

"Some people aren't impressed by anything but physical power, and if you can impress them this way first, you have their attention and can talk with them about Jesus," he said.

The carnations have been provided the past four years as a good luck omen. Silver lost for the State AAA championship in 1972 by one point.

First Baptist Plans Special Music Program

Prior to beginning new employment next month in Atlanta, Ga., Miss Janet Gwaltney, church pianist for more than seven years, will be featured at the piano for a sermon in song at the 7:30 p.m. service Sunday at First Baptist Church, 1101 North Main St.

Assisting Miss Gwaltney in the sermon in song will be Joe Williams, minister of music.

In addition to being pianist, she has served the church's music program as graded choir leader and director.

In Atlanta, Miss Gwaltney will be employed as a music specialist in the Fulton County school system. She has taught music in New Madrid and Bloomfield schools while serving as church pianist.

First Baptist also recently honored Miss Neva Mae Taylor, church organist of many years, with reception and plaque. Miss Taylor has moved to Nashville, Tenn.

Airport Chapels Proving Popular

By REV. DAVID POLING

One dictionary that we use defines "chapel" as "a place of worship subordinate to a church, especially in a college or hospital." While hospitals and colleges may head the list in number, military and prison chapels are everywhere present.

As the religious community becomes more and more institutionalized, chapels are bound to flourish as an extension of the church.

The newest chapels, rather the newest outposts where chapels have been established, are at the major airports. In New York, Boston and Chicago's O'Hare, there is a regular program of worship service and full-time counsel offered by clergymen. In each setting, the approach does vary, but the activity and ministry is definitely on the increase.

In New York, the Protestant-Catholic-Jewish houses of worship form a dramatic cluster in the outer reaches of Kennedy. The architecture of the buildings and the central location is most appealing.

But Kennedy has traffic problems and one can hardly walk from any of the air terminals to the chapels without dashing across four-lane target areas. One must take bus or cab to reach the location, discouraging to those who have less than half an hour for such a visit.

At Logan Field in Boston, the chapel can be reached by a five- or 10-minute walk from almost any direction. Our last visit was during a Sunday afternoon in July—and the chapel was crowded, with a wedding in progress. Some 70 or 80 people had gathered for a Roman Catholic service and the priest and chapel was just what they wanted.

It appears that the airport chapels (there are only three fully staffed centers that we know of in the United States and none overseas) serve a resident community of airline personnel and staff as much as they assist the travelers.

At O'Hare, the chapel is four levels down in the basement, surrounded by steam pipes and air-conditioning vents. Yet a lively, attractive worship center has been created and attendance is good.

At O'Hare, the ecumenical touch is what counts. Protestants and Catholics share fully the same facilities, with the Community of Our Lady of Loreto served full-time by Father John J. Keough.

Our last Sunday attendance was during the winter. The services were given good publicity over the public address system of the airport and at least 100 showed up for the 1:10 p.m. mass. Here again, it seemed that baggage handlers, car rental clerks and air line staffers were the majority of those present.

One does not recall railroad stations having chapels—although Traveler's Aid was always ready and waiting. The airports see thousands of people an hour at the larger terminals and many of these are families and individuals in great trouble. Some are hurrying to a loved one close to death. Others are returning from a funeral or family tragedy.

Confessions and Forgiveness

How does one seek forgiveness?

Much difficulty comes from our inability or our unwillingness to admit our sin or to admit making a mistake.

The saying that "confession is good for the soul" is correct. However, any confession is difficult to obtain. Before we can experience forgiveness we first must experience repentance and confession.

The writer of Psalm 51 is unknown, although it might have been David. It vividly describes David's great sin, the taking of another man's wife and sending that man away to die.

David had been chosen by God to be a king. He had been rescued from Saul's powers and had been promised many blessings by the Lord, who was extremely upset by David's transgression.

David admitted that he had sinned against the Lord. In this Psalm we see the greatest of all prayers in our literature a prayer that combines the agony of sin with the beauty of its forgiving.

The sinner who repents is the near saint. "I admit I made a mistake," is the hardest statement we have to say.

The Lord spoke to David through the prophet Nathan, who related an incident before the king about the way a rich man treated a poor man.

When David quickly admitted that the rich man deserved to die, Nathan said, "You are the man. This the word of the Lord the God of Israel to you."

The Lord forgave David after the king begged to be saved. However, David was punished when the Lord took his young son from him.

David's act in taking Bathsheba was no doubt the custom of his day. To many a king could do no wrong. What then, was so remarkable about this incident?

David was unique. He realized that he had committed a sin in the eyes of God and he confessed this sin. Certainly it was unusual for a king to act in such a manner.

Nathan, too, was unusual. He risked his life in rebuking David. Prophets through the ages have denounced wickedness and injustice. Some have succeeded, such as Nathan others, however, have not been so successful.

Much confusion exists about the definition of sin. The Psalmist considers three categories of sin:

(1) Transgression, which is the deliberate sin. In this group we see the son who rebels against his father. We also see the person who walks across the "No Trespassing" sign.

(2) Iniquity. In this group we list injustice, corruption, and crookedness. Racial bigotry and the taking of bribes fit here.

(3) Plain sin. This is a violation of the divine word. It involves the person who cheats God in any manner.

According to Tarbell's Teacher's Guide, God has three ways of offering forgiveness:

(1) He can blot out its stain.

(2) He can wash our hearts clean of evil and put good in its place.

(3) He can cleanse us as a refiner cleanses metal from its dross.

According to history we are all born in sin. According to many we are unable to refrain from sinning. The Psalmist knew this. He also knew it was necessary for all of us to have our hearts renewed from time to time.

Certainly Christ recognized our problems when He said on the Cross, "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do."

If He could ask forgiveness for our sins, is it expecting too much when He asks us to make the first move? Father, forgive us our sins.

Hoffman Voices Views On Church

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Lutheran Church broadcaster Dr. Oswald Hoffman said Sunday if the church fails it is because of a lack of confidence in religious teachings.

There is a natural religion which appeals to many people today, which offers hope to the people of "somehow saving themselves, of solving the problems by themselves," he said.

Dr. Hoffman, speaker for the Lutheran Hour radio show, was in St. Louis for the annual convention of the Lutheran Laymen's League. About 6,000 persons attended the meeting, which ran through Wednesday.

Manning said the film cleared up many misunderstandings, and he reminded those concerned with nissance possibilities that the $500 fine for littering should keep private haulers from improperly transporting the trash.

Presiding Judge Les D. Lankford said he thought most of those attending were from the Morley area. There has been some controversy in this area over a proposed site for a Scott County sanitary landfill near the Highway 61-77 junction. Lankford pointed out that no site has been picked and explained that there are several sites under consideration in a seven- county area.

Manning said the ideal location in Scott County for the landfill, as far as availability to the trash, would be west of Highway 61 on Route Z, but soil conditions and water table levels in this area made it unsuitable for a sanitary landfill site. Therefore, Manning explained, the Scott County site should be as close to this area as possible.
